Extract from Dr. Johnson's Will.

"I give and bequeath unto Sir Joshua Reynolds, my own "Copy of my Folio English Dictionary, of the last Revision."

To the PUBLIC.

The arbitrary State of the English Language had long been a Subject of Regret among the learned in this Country, who, though they cultivated useful and polite Learning beyond the Nations on the Continent, had the Mortification to behold themselves infinitely surpassed in Philological Improvement by the Academicians of Italy and France. Applications were made, without Success, to different Sovereigns, for such a Patronage as might enable a Society of literary Men to compile a Dictionary for the Use of those who, either in Composition or Speech, might aspire to Precision and Elegance. Similar Overtures were made to several of the Nobility; and Dean Swift is said to have laid a Plan of the same Kind before the Earl of Oxford; which, however, does not appear to have been regarded: For, as Dr. Johnson observes, "The English Language was still "suffered to spread, under the Direction of Chance, into "wild Exuberance; resigned to the Tyranny of Time and "Fashion; and exposed to the Corruptions of Ignorance, and "the Caprices of Innovation." But what could not be accomplished by Royal Munificence, or under the Auspices of the Nobility, was reserved for certain Booksellers, who had the peculiar Felicity of enabling Dr. Johnson to perform a Work, not less advantageous to the Interests of Literature, than astonishing, when considered as the laborious Production of One Man.

To render this inestimable Work, so necessary in the present Age of Refinement, more accessible to all Ranks of Men, it is proposed to publish a correct, elegant, and cheap Edition, printed from a Copy in which there are many Additions and Corrections, written by the Author's own Hand, and bequeathed by him to Sir JOSHUA REYNOLDS, who has, with a Liberality which distinguishes his Character, indulged the Proprietors with the Use of it, that the Public may not be deprived of the last Improvements of so consummate a Lexicographer as Dr. JOHNSON.

ALL Persons who have any Claims on the Estate and Effects of Mr. Thomas Holt, late of Newport Pagnell in the County of Bucks, deceased, and intend to take the Benefit of an Assignment thereof some Time since made in Trust for his Creditors, are desired to deliver in an Account of such Claims to Mr. Hurst, Attorney, at Newport Pagnell aforesaid, and sign the Deed which now lies with Mr. Hurst for that Purpose, on or before the 31st Day of January next, as a Dividend is shortly afterwards intended to be made by the Assignees, otherwise they will be excluded from receiving any Benefit under such Assignment.
